SEBRING — Firefighters, EMS, law enforcement and their support staff will get fresh-grilled barbecue this Thursday, for the sixth year in a row.

Last year they served 300 meals, said Debra Weiser, secretary of the Sebring Sunrise Rotary Club, and may have more this year, as they deliver to emergency responders' substations throughout the county.

Four years ago, they set up their smokers, pop-up tents, tables and coolers in the back parking lot of the Highlands County Sheriff's Office, behind the then-new administration building. This Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., will find them at the Fireman's Pavilion at the Highlands County Fairgrounds.

This year's event corresponds to National First Responders Appreciation Day, which was designated as Oct. 28 in 2017 to recognize the men and women who make it their business to take immediate action when disaster strikes. Examples include those firefighters, police, paramedics and others who rushed toward Lower Manhattan and/or into the World Trade Center on Sept. 11, 2001, to deal with a terrorist act or those in Highlands County who rushed on Jan. 23, 2019, to the scene of an active shooter at the former SunTrust Bank in Sebring.

"Whether you've had your own emergency or not, it's not hard to understand and appreciate the dangerous and difficult work they do," states the entry

Elections Supervisors speak out against disparaging 2020 vote

By PHIL ATTINGER STAFF WRITER

SEBRING — One year later, as many candidates and elected officials continue to dispute the results of the 2020 presidential election, the Florida Supervisors of Elections association has asked them to tone down the rhetoric or risk undermining all national and local elections.

"The Great American Experiment, our cherished democracy, is under threat. Our nation is only as strong as the faith our citizens have that their voice, their vote, has a say in our government," Florida's elections supervisors said in a statement released this week. "In this hour, public trust in our elections is being systematically undermined, to the detriment of all Americans."

The letter goes on to state that elections officials take "We the People," as a professional and personal mantra to ensure elections on every level are secure, sound and fair. They continuously strive to debunk false claims, the letter states, and provide voters with accurate election information.

"We are dedicated to the cause of election integrity, ensuring that every eligible voter's ballot is counted accurately and that no fraud takes place. But false claims of fraud do not strengthen our elections," the letter states. "Instead, they degrade confidence in the institutions, and discourage citizen participation in our democracy." The "misinformation, disinformation and malinformation" that has circulated in the last year has not only sown discord and undermined trust, the letter states, but has led to many election supervisors being threatened by their fellow citizens. "There is 'politics' and then there's 'elections,'" Assistant Supervisor of Election Karen Healy said. "If this misinformation and malinformation is out there, it does nothing but undermine the public confidence in what we do." Healy said most people probably don't realize the level of security factors elections workers have in place to ensure no one tampers with or mishandles ballots. Those measures include security cameras and locked ballot boxes brought in with care from the polls. They also include constant upgrades to their computer software and hardware to prevent cyberattacks. The Supervisor of Elections Office has glass partitions that allow the public to come in and view the process, she said. Not many do. A recent publicized demonstration Friday afternoon in Avon Park of a Logic and Accuracy Test of all election equipment was attended by the Avon Park City Canvassing Board members, but not by the public, she said, even though it was open to the public. For the 2021-21 fiscal year, the Supervisor of Elections Office has a $1.22 million budget, nearly twice this previous fiscal year's budget. It's in preparation for Florida's gubernatorial and the national mid-term elections on Nov. 8, 2022, shortly after the end of the fiscal year.

SEBRING — When word first started to spread about the Who I Am Foundation patient support kits, a group of young ladies jumped at the chance to help them get started.

Brittney Fann, director of Beauty Fit for a Oueen, first learned about Who I Am Foundation when visiting with co-founders Tracy Stites and Jo Ann Serdynski.

Fann told Emilie Franklin, who is Miss Highlands County, about the foundation's mission and she wanted to get the group involved.

The Who I Am Patient Support Kit contains information on national, state and local Highlands County support organizations like Meals on Wheels and social services. Most importantly the 28-by-24inch wall hanging has 13

Fann and Franklin gathered about 20 middle school and high school girls from Sebring and Wauchula to help package the kits for a first round of distribution.

Of the three boxes of kits that the girls worked through, 60 went to AdventHealth in Sebring, 10 each to the Avon Park, Sebring and Lake Placid chambers of commerce and 10 to a volunteer working specifically with families with loved ones in COVID isolation at Baycare in Plant City.

Stites and Serdynski opened the gathering by telling why the foundation

New position focuses on improving school attendance

By MARC VALERO STAFF WRITER

SEBRING — The School District has a new position called "attendance liaison," to help student attendance, which is one of the areas the district has focused on improving.

At a recent meeting of the School Board of Highlands County, a few administrators provided an update on the district's efforts to achieve the Stock Take goals, student performance to recruiting and retaining highly qualified staff.

Assistant Superintendent of Student Support Services Melissa Blackman provided an update on the area she is overseeing — Development of the Whole Child, which focuses on the learning environment and that a student's physical and mental needs are being met when they are in school.

In order for students to which range from improving benefit from the highly effective teaching strategies in Goal 1, they need to be in school and attentive to their teacher's instruction, she said.

> The three main strategies are improving attendance, improved discipline and expanding the mentorship program.

The goal is to increase the percentage of students who are present for more than 90% of their time enrolled.

Carol Derrick

Thanks for reading!

"We began in 2018-19 with 77% of our students attending at least 90% of the time and we all know has happened with attendance over the last couple of years," Blackman said.

A chart showed that at the end of the 2018-19 school year it slipped a bit to 75% and was back to 78% at the end of the third nine weeks of the 2019-20 school year.

1. The original "Ghostbusters" cast was to include John Belushi as Peter Venkman and Eddie Murphy as Winston Zeddemore. Belushi's death required recasting, and Murphy's Beverly Hills Cop contract prevented him from being able to commit.

2. Both Huey Lewis and Lindsey Buckingham were offered the opportunity for the "Ghostbusters" theme song, but in the end Ray Parker Jr. won out, and reportedly wrote it in less than two days. Huey Lewis went on to sue Parker, claiming the theme was a blatant ripoff of his hit "I Want A New Drug." The suit was settled out of court in 1985.

Roquiz honored, stays humble

By PHIL ATTINGER STAFF WRITER

SEBRING — A good man is hard to find, but not a good doctor, unless that doctor is as humble as Dr. Placido Roquiz, who puts God, family and his patients before accolades.

When awarded this year's Surgeon of the Year by the Highlands News-Sun, not only was he speechless, or pose for a photograph, he could not be reached for a photo or comment.

When sought at his practice or via phone, he was not available, but staff at his son's medical practice said they were off at an important family function.

As described by his son Dr. Andrew Roquiz, who practices family medicine in the Sebring area, his family stays close and have celebrated life, even in the face of the loss of his mother, Dr. Placido Roquiz's wife, last year. Dr. Andrew Roquiz wrote in his blog, "The Christian Doctor," of the light-heartedness of his family, how they were convinced his mother would not want a funeral, but instead would want a Celebration of Life with laughter, food, parties, faith, family, generosity and music. The essence of her life was the essence of life, he wrote. Photos of their family, especially of her and Dr. Placido Roquiz together show a couple in love with life and with each other.

Dr. Placido Roquiz, on his own social media outlet, recorded a video a few years ago, singing of the immense joy of seeing his daughter become a bride.

His passion comes out in his work, as well, as described by 77-yearold Donna Pierce, who arrived at AdventHealth Sebring's Emergency Room one day sick at her stomach, soon to learn she needed a hernia operation.

That's when she met Dr. Placido Roquiz, called in for the emergency surgery.

"When he came in, he asked if I would mind if he said a prayer. I thought, 'That is amazing,"" Pierce said. "He just set me at ease, like an old doctor who just cared about his patients."

Pierce said he said a prayer for her and for him and to guide his hands during the surgery, to make the surgery a success and to have God watch over it and them.

"He really put me at ease," Pierce said.

Pierce, who has split each years since 2000 between Highlands County and Alexandria, Indiana, said the surgery couldn't have gone smoother. She said preparation went well and the scar "looks great," too.

"He just needs to keep working," Pierce said. "He's just a beautiful person. That's a quality that has to come within your heart."

Dr. Roquiz is listed as having graduated from the Manila Central University Filemon D. Tanchoco Foundation College of Medicine in 1978. He is a general surgeon in Sebring and is affiliated with multiple hospitals in the area, including AdventHealth Sebring and Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Patients praise him as one who listens closely, attentively, and one who explains the situation to them clearly and kindly.
